> INTERESTED IN AGRICULTURE?

Lethbridge College is committed to providing high school students with experiences that will help them find a career path they are excited about, wherever that road may lead. For those curious about agriculture, there are a wide variety of opportunities and we are here to help students learn about their options, so they can make an informed decision they feel confident about.

This fall, Lethbridge College introduces Foundations of Agriculture, a new course exploring primary agriculture industries in southern Alberta including agronomy, animal science and business. Designed for grades 10, 11 and 12, you'll be able to earn credit at both your high school and the college.

Join us for the June 1 info session to learn more about this course and others in Lethbridge College's Agriculture Dual Credit Pathway and find out how students can get started building a future career, today!
